MESSAGE

It is a proud moment for me to be part of Sri Venkateswara College, New Delhi, an institute at the national capital, being run by Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams, Tirupati. As the Chief Executive of this Trust, which runs several institutes for various noble causes out of the offerings made to the corpus of Lord Venkateswara, the Presiding Deity of the Seven Hills, the cause of education to all at an affordable cost, is an exciting and driving force to optimally utilize the resources at our end for supporting a disciplined and value based education, inculcating the philosophy and ethos of our ancient culture through the spectrum of modern thoughts and technology.

It is a delight to me that Sri Venkateswara College, New Delhi, has come up in age from its modest beginning in 1961, catering to the people hailing from South India, to become one of the premiere institute of Delhi University, winning accolades from many luminaries and people of Delhi. Its transition to the status of college of excellence, has become a source of inspiration to other institutes run by our management.

I extend my good wishes to all the admission seekers aspiring to join this institute, which has such a dedicated team of staff led by a spirited and tireless principal.

I pray the Lord of Seven Hills to shower his blessings on this college for accomplishing much more laurels and accolades in the years to come.

(D. SAMBASIVA RAO)

The Principal's First Words

I welcome all the young prospective students to be part of Sri Venkateswara fraternity.

It is not for nothing that a picture of eminent educationist Dr S. Radhakrishnan, whom the nation and educators in particular remember each year on Teachers' Day, has for long adorned the precincts of Sri Venkateswara College. Given the synergistic approach adopted by a succession of institutional heads between variant academic disciplines, the ideal pragmatic midpoint between techno-development and preparing the student body for their serviceability in a burgeoning market economy on the one hand, and an inclusivistic liberal-humanistic educational 'vision' on the other has been sustained at Sri Venkateswara college in a state of enlightened balance. The total educational life of the institution is thus informed by a commitment toward the student's overall development in the fullest, most holistic sense: academic, intellectual, cultural, moral and spiritual. To understand the scale of effort and objectivity required to successfully meet this challenge of a multidimensional development of the targeted beneficiaries of higher education, it is good to remember that 'vision' is often an intangible, almost ineffable concept. Educational philosophy on such a view necessarily includes state of the art infrastructural instrumentalities, yet recognizes that the instrument's power must be harnessed by thinking and purposeful application in social advancement and productivity. To put it another way, no machine has yet been invented that can displace the inspired human mind. Ultimately it is that inspired, probing, collaterally conscious, socially responsive and morally sensitized mind that is the end-objective of a higher learning programme – it scarcely matters whether it be in the field of the hard sciences, or business studies, or of the humanities, an enlightened 'vision' strengthens everybody. As educators our goal has been not to prioritize either Man or Machine at the expense of each other, but to encourage an awareness of the co-informing synergy between the twain in a manner maximally beneficial to the concerns of the society.

We thus continue to function from our own educational 'mantra', namely that a society has needs and concerns, including those of self-reflection and value determination, alongside those of the market and technology, each has its place, and each gains from awareness of collateral areas. Our brilliant but dedicated alumni are proof of the usefulness and success of such a holistic, creative and organic philosophy of education.

I wish you all the best for a memorable journey of your life.

ABOUT THE COLLEGE

The Choice of every student....

The Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD) engaged in the management of the sacred hill temple of Lord Sri Venkateswara at Tirupati (Andhra Pradesh) believes that the temple as a place of worship must bring about national integration and, schools and colleges should light up the path of devotion through education and enlightenment. Inspired by its zeal to spread the spiritual values and indian culture, a devout scholar and an active social worker Dr. Durgabai Deshmukh engaged some of the finest thinkers of modern India like Dr. Sarvapalli Radhakrishnan, Dr. C. Anna Rao and Dr. K.L. Rao to establish Sri Venkateswara College at New Delhi under its aegis in 1961.

Located today in Dhaula Kuan and acknowledged as the South Campus's numero uno co-educational college offering a wide-ranging bouquet of up to date study programmes and boasting an enrolment strength rivaling many a small university, it has expanded over the half century adapting dynamically and continually to felt needs and the emerging educational demands of the times. The College imparts high quality education to students through innovative pedagogy and modern training facilities, provides holistic personality development through strong academics coupled with active participation in co-curricular programmes that include fine arts, sports and leadership training. The objective is to develop a sense of ethics and responsibility in students and to broaden their perspectives so that they are able to succeed in today's global, competitive and dynamic environment. The four guiding principles of the doctrine of indian culture, namely, dedication and duty, material well-being for the benefit of society, pleasure of meaningful living and salvation through self-knowledge were meant and remain still the chosen ideals vivifying its branches of arts, humanities and sciences in the college. Unsurprisingly then, it is perceived as a feather in the cap of today's student community to be able to say that they are a "Venkyite" – a popular mantle many aspire to, but only a fraction of the aspirants will ultimately be able to actually claim.

Sri Venkateswara College today has 180 teaching and 250 non-teaching staff members and around 3500 students on its roll. It also offers 10 post-graduate courses for study and provides one year post-graduate diploma course in Molecular and Biochemical technique and a certificate course in German Language.

VALUE BASED EDUCATION

"Education is the key determinant of the conduct of a human being. The scope of education is to facilitate development of right understanding and development of right skills. The subject that deals with what to do ? (and what not to do ?) is value education - it facilitates development of right understanding. The subject that deals with How to do? is technical professional education - it enables development of skills. There is complementarity between the two, both are required and the priority is the value, then skills. In the present education system, Value Based Education is a missing link to correct serious crises at the individual, societal and environmental (Hands-on, Minds-on and Hearts-on education philosophy). Thus, in higher education the teaching learning process should be holistic based on "students with the required skill-set for employment. "Minds-on" learning to develop them into independent thinking & flexible practitioner, to manage rapid change in the environment. "Hearts-on" learning to develop "Complete Students", who have the passion for what they do and self belief and care for the community and society."

In this they are also guided by both the Convenor as well as Senior members of their Societies. In this way they forge important relationships with their peers and also become important contributing members of the vibrant community space that the Fine Arts Associations creates at Sri Venkateswara College.
