PROOFS

After the mesmerising speaker session, the fest started with its first event Hire-Archy, a human resource management competition where a total of 12 teams from different colleges showed an enthusiastic participation which took place in the college seminar hall. There were three rounds with different time limit in each and the first round was the case study solving round. Participants had to identify the vacancies in the given organisation by going through the case study thoroughly. Second round was the one where participants were provided with a set of 31 CVs representing various potential candidates for different posts. Participants had to identify the right candidate for the right post.

Here comes the plot twist, they were given a total budget of ₹50 lacs and each CV had a salary mentioned. So the participants couldn't hire bluntly but had to make sure that their top 5 vacancies were filled using the budget provided. Third round was an interview round where the teams had to go to different panels and justify their choice of candidates. They were questioned very rigorously and participants needed good explanations and logical reasons to impress the interviewers who grilled them as much as they could. This is how the skills that an HR Manager should possess were tested from scratch. Participants enjoyed the competition and also felt that it helped them identify what they need to work on if they aspire to become an HR Manager someday.

The second event was a PubG battle competition catering to the needs of gaming fanatics. Various students showed up to win and stand out as the best player. A lot of teams and individuals participated using squad and individual modes respectively. Everybody had a great time battling with each other and it was very exuberating. Alas! the event ended with a day that helped students to gain knowledge through the eminent speakers, have practical approach and exposure to the management world and an amusing gaming battle.
