He gave a live demo of how to change colours of apparels and how to apply different backgrounds to different images. He also showed how to move around objects, add or subtract elements from an image and to improve facial features and the quality of pictures. The entire time, he kept encouraging the attendees to practice alongside him and to ask their queries in the chat box. The session was highly interactive in nature, the participants asked many questions throughout the session and the host answered them all very patiently. Overall, the workshop was able to equip the attendees with practical skills and turned out to be extremely enlightening and helpful to everyone who attended it.
