Can you handle the responsibility and the pressure? Boardroom Bloodshed is the perfect opportunity to find out, with a fast paced reality based boardroom simulation. So arm yourself with your negotiation skills, your sly business acumen, and register for the bloodbath! Our first mega event was Boardroom Bloodshed. The event aimed at showcasing the students', critical thinking and analytical ability along with knowledge of current situations in society. It witnessed a participation of more than 100 students, who came from several colleges across India.

Prelims: The first round contained 8 short case studies which was a multiple choice questions round which gave the top 10 finalists for the event. It was a nail biting competition as the scores were quite close to each other, where time played an important role.

Finals: 10 finalists were divided into Board of Directors of 2 prominent companies (Pepsi and Coca Cola). Each Board of Directors had a separate meeting running. They were given a case study upon which they have to present their views in the Group Discussion; and the decisions taken in one meeting were leaked to another meeting to know how they handle emergency room situation. These situations were interlinked to each other and they had to give answers in respect to the previous ones.

The finalists gave in really interesting and insightful answers which raised the level of competition. The activity was a big success as the students learned a lot in this activity along with enjoyment. The students had a fun time by answering various questions asked to them during the evaluation time which further enriched their general and financial knowledge and had a feel of what Board of Directors of big companies act like.
