Report

The Department of Sociology at Sri Venkateswara College successfully organized an online workshop on "Crafting Successful SOPs: Navigating the Path to Admission in Reputed Universities." The event took place on November 25, 2023, from 3:00 pm to 5:00 pm via Google Meet.

Dr. Padma Priyadarshini, the Teacher-In-Charge of Sociology Department, in her inaugural address, set the tone for the workshop, highlighting the significance of Statement of Purpose (SOP) in the admission process and the role it plays in shaping academic and professional trajectories.

Dr. Niharika Jaiswal, the Event Convenor, warmly welcomed the participants and introduced the distinguished speaker, Ms. Jyotismita Khataniar. Dr. Jaiswal emphasized the importance of crafting compelling SOPs for aspiring students seeking admission to reputed universities.

Ms. Jyotismita Khataniar, the alumina of SVC, batch of 2022 with a master's degree from the London School of Economics, shared invaluable insights during her session. She discussed her academic journey, success in securing admits from global universities, and her professional experiences, notably at Google's Department of Public Policy and Law.

She clarified that SOPs are not research proposals but should connect academic and professional interests with personal experiences. Jyotismita highlighted the importance of a creative introduction, discouraged the use of quotes, and outlined a flexible SOP structure, including sections like introduction, academic background, research and work experience, program alignment, specific program aspects, and future goals.

She also said that thorough research on the program, faculty, courses, and resources was emphasized, along with showcasing a clear connection between the program and career aspirations. Jyotismita offered advice on researching courses, cautioning against "cash grab" options, and recommended exploring scholarships and financial aid.

Ms. Khataniar underscored the distinction between personal statements and SOPs, emphasizing the latter's focus on academic and professional backgrounds, career goals, and program-specific reasons. Her presentation covered the need for awareness of existing literature, balancing technicality and simplicity, and the flexibility of SOP structure.

She provided practical advice on thorough research, connecting with alumni, and avoiding clichés in SOPs. Ms. Khataniar encouraged applicants to adhere to word count, ensure clarity and logical flow, and seek feedback from peers and alumni while maintaining their unique personalities. She advised against spamming with emails and maintains a respectful tone and recommended crafting specific and genuine questions to elicit meaningful responses.

Ms. Khataniar stressed the importance of free resources and building a supportive network and shared her personal experience of seeking guidance on career choices and job prospects. She suggested journaling or making notes connecting personal experiences to the chosen course. She stressed the dual nature of SOPs as both academic and personal narratives and encouraged applicants to articulate how the course aligns with their life journey. She recommended to avoid repetition of experiences listed in the academic CV. She advocated for highlighting experiences that significantly shaped one's thinking and urged applicants to undergo multiple drafts, seek feedback, and take time for revisions.

The workshop included an engaging Question and Answer session where participants had the opportunity to seek clarification and delve deeper into the nuances of crafting effective SOPs. Ms. Khataniar responded to queries with precision, offering valuable insights into the intricacies of the application process.

Jyotismita urged aiming high in applications, seeking fee waivers for costly applications, explaining situations to admission committees. She highlighted work experience's importance for certain scholarships, suggesting celebrating small achievements in the application process. She concluded by motivating applicants not to let perceived weaknesses hinder their pursuit, emphasizing the diversity of paths to success.

Rohitkrishna A, President of the Sociology Student Association at Sri Venkateswara College, delivered the vote of thanks. He expressed gratitude to Ms. Khataniar, the faculty members and students for their contributions to the workshop and thanked everyone for their active participation.

In conclusion, the workshop provided a comprehensive guide to crafting successful SOPs, combining academic rigor with practical insights from an accomplished alumna. The event was a testament to the department's commitment to empowering students in their academic pursuits.

GENERAL TIPS

- The Imposter syndrome is real and the best of the best scholars go through it.
- Shoot for the moon, you may land on the moon.
- Ask for aids/waivers wherever you can.
- Try not to rush into a graduate programme if you are not sure about it or are not in the headspace. Take a break if needed, it's okay.
- Celebrate little joys.
- Don't let perceived weaknesses, like attending an unfamiliar university, lacking extra-curricular involvement or unsatisfactory grades, deter you—successful applicants follow diverse paths, and no single weakness can overshadow numerous strengths in the unique and multifaceted application

- The presentation was crisp and succinct, and the speaker was wonderful. I could sense that she really understands what doubts we would have as college students wanting to apply to colleges in India or abroad. The meet was quite well organised and really smooth.
- It's a really great webinar, I got to know about the Statement of Purpose and it was clear what the guest was trying to present.
- It was so good....

- The session is very informative and interesting. Jyotismita ma'am is so good and also very kind and humble.
- Would like have such workshops further
- Amazing presentation
- Thank you for the department and faculties for organizing such a meeting. Keep going.
- The workshop was in itself really good. Looking forward to have more such insightful sessions. Though I feel keeping sessions in offline mode would be more interactive but keeping in mind the distance and time constraints of both the speakers and the attendee's virtual mode also gives us an opportunity to get the insights at our desired place. Appreciate the work of the Organizers. Thank you so much for providing an opportunity to attend this session 🍷
- No need to give any suggestion because the workshop has organised very well
- Should be more workshops like this
- Nothing
- No suggestions as of now
- Thank you for the enriching session, really glad that I joined; it was extremely helpful
