BRIEF INFORMATION ABOUT THE ACTIVITY

TOPIC/SUBJECT OF THE ACTIVITY	Organizing an on-campus plantation drive under the nationwide "Ek Ped Maa Ke Naam" campaign
OBJECTIVES	- To foster deep ecological responsibility and encourage active, hands-on student participation in environmental and green initiatives. - To significantly increase native biodiversity, enrich local flora, and expand the overall green cover within the college premises. - To align institutional sustainability efforts with broader university-level environmental campaigns and directives under the Garden Committee, University of Delhi.

	To instill a sense of personal connection to nature and environmental stewardship among students through dedicated symbolic plantation.
METHODOLOGY	Inauguration & Briefing: The event commenced with an insightful introductory briefing by the faculty convenors highlighting the critical importance of native tree species, urban forestry, and mitigating local carbon footprints. Site Preparation & Demarcation: Designated planting zones across the campus were cleared and prepared in advance by the coordination team to ensure optimal growth conditions for the saplings. Plantation Execution: Faculty members, convenor, student volunteers, and support staff enthusiastically worked together to plant a diverse selection of saplings across the designated campus locations. Pledge & Long-Term Maintenance: Participants took a collective environmental pledge to actively monitor, water, and nurture the newly planted saplings to ensure their high survival rate and sustained healthy growth.

ACTIVITY REPORT

The Eco Club of Sri Venkateswara College, in active collaboration with the Garden Committee, University of Delhi, organized an on-campus plantation drive under the nationwide campaign "Ek Ped Maa Ke Naam". The initiative was lead under the guidance of Prof. Rupam Kapoor (Convenor, Garden Committee, University of Delhi) and Dr. Vinita Kapoor (Convenor, Eco Club, Sri Venkateswara College).

The event commenced with an insightful introductory briefing by the convenor highlighting the critical importance of native tree species, urban forestry, and mitigating local carbon footprints. Designated planting zones across the campus were cleared and prepared in advance by the coordination team to ensure optimal soil health and growth conditions for the saplings.

Faculty members, convenor, student volunteers, and support staff enthusiastically worked together to plant a diverse selection of saplings across the designated campus locations. Principal Prof. V. Ravi also planted a sapling along with the team and appreciated the green initiative. Following the plantation, participants took a collective environmental pledge to actively monitor, water, and nurture the newly planted saplings to ensure a high survival rate and sustained healthy growth.

The drive successfully enriched the college's ecosystem by adding new saplings to the existing campus green cover, fostering hands-on environmental awareness, practical conservation skills, and strong teamwork among student volunteers. Furthermore, it strengthened institutional linkages and collaborative ties between the Eco Club and the University of Delhi's Garden Committee for future joint initiatives, creating a lasting green legacy on campus that contributes directly to national sustainability and climate-action goals.
