Report: Annual Magazine Launch and Alumni Seminar

The Department of Sociology hosted a vibrant and intellectually engaging event to unveil the 2025 edition of We Witness, the department’s annual magazine. This event brought together students, faculty, and alumni to celebrate not only the creative and academic efforts of the department but also to foster dialogue around critical sociological themes. The event commenced with the formal magazine launch, followed by an enriching lecture and interactive discussion, making it a memorable academic gathering.

The event was started by magazine members, who introduced the event and called on Prof. Nabanipa Bhattacharjee, who served as the magazine convenor this year to say a few words. Followed by this, was the magazine launch which was done by all the faculty members. The chief editors for this year Adarsh and Zaara came forward to give a gist of this year’s curation and of all the planning that went into it.

Post that, our esteemed alumna Ms. Abhivyakti Vivek was invited for a speaker session centered on the theme “Knowledge, Power and Education: A Sociological Perspective.” She was felicitated with a copy of the magazine and a potted plant.

The lecture delved into the intersections of education, social structure, and power, offering students a nuanced understanding of these dynamics. The speaker, drawing from their own research and academic journey, provided valuable insights into the process of pursuing a PhD, sparking curiosity and ambition among the attendees. She spoke on the intersection of education and society, and how her own PhD has made her aware of all the disparities that still exist within the city.

The interactive discussion that followed included a Q&A session, where students eagerly engaged with the speaker on topics such as the current educational scenario in New Delhi, public education policies, and state-run schemes.

The event ended with Ayush, opening the floor for discussion and a round of Q&A and Harsh Pansari, concluding with the vote of thanks.

The event also served to encourage research-related pursuits, as students gained exposure to academic trajectories and the role of sociology in public policy. The overall atmosphere was one of inspiration and intellectual growth, reaffirming the department’s commitment to fostering critical thought and academic excellence.
